

Licensing Doody's Reviews

The copyright of all reviews published on the Doody's Review Service™ and Doody's Publishers' Club websites is owned and controlled by Doody Enterprises, Inc. The following document outlines the license fees associated with this copyrighted material as well as fair use of this content.

Participating Publishers*

Fair Use

Participating publishers in Doody's Review Service are entitled to use the Doody's Star Ratings for reuse in their proprietary print and online publications at no cost, as long as they are identified as Doody's Star Ratings®.

Participating publishers are also allowed to excerpt up to 30 words of a review for reuse on their proprietary print and online publications at no cost, as long as they cite the excerpt in the following manner:

© Doody's Review Service, followed by the © year of the title reviewed, followed by the name, degree(s) and affiliation of the reviewer.

Participating publishers wishing to use Doody's Star Ratings and/or Doody's Reviews beyond the scope of these Fair Use restrictions must enter into a licensing arrangement with Doody Enterprises, Inc.

Licensing Arrangements

Participating publishers may also purchase an unlimited license to republish and repurpose all Doody's reviews of their titles on any of their proprietary online and print publications. Annual license fees for the entire database of reviews of a publisher's titles range from $750 - $15,000, depending on the number of reviews. An additional fee of up to $5,000 annually is assessed if the licensee wants to share these files with third parties it provides its book metadata to. Licensed data include the

- Narrative review
- Completed questionnaire
- Weighted numerical score
- Doody's Star Rating®

Licensees receive a file transfer consisting of the licensed data on all titles published by the licensee in Doody's database and monthly file updates for as long as the license agreement is valid.

Participating publishers may purchase an unlimited license to the licensed data for a single review for a one-time fee of $100.

If a participating publisher is interested in any one of these arrangements, please contact editorial@doody.com for more details.

*Participating publishers are defined as publishers which send two copies of their print health sciences titles to Doody Enterprises, Inc. so information about those titles (including expert reviews of many of those titles) appears on the Doody's Review Service™ website.

Third parties

Third parties who are not participating publishers (e.g., online bookstores, aggregators, etc.) who are interested in licensing some or all of the licensed data on some or all of the titles in Doody's Review Service™ database must pay an annual license fee that is determined by the amount of data licensed. Third parties interested in these arrangements should contact editorial@doody.com for more details.